4.8	Third Party Certification of Cranes for Cargo Transfer of Personal Vehicles	06-044A

QUESTION

Q1: If a crane lifts personal vehicles aboard a ship at one port and they are off loaded at another, does this constitute a cargo transfer that would require the crane to be third-party certified?

ANSWER

A1: Personal vehicles that will be transferred from one location to another are considered cargo and their loading and off-loading is considered cargo transfer. Therefore, all cranes that load vehicles on ships to transfer to another location will require third party certification.
